Our City COMMENT AND DISCUSSION

—by—
THOS. D. WATSON

Is Glendale Over-organized So Far as Clubs Are Concerned?

THE question is being asked by a number of Glendalians, "Is our city over-organized as far as clubs are concerned?" If we were asked this question we would answer: Yes, because we think that there are a number of clubs, formed to handle civic affairs, where one club could do the work without any over-lapping.

There can never be too many fraternal organizations in our city, nor too many clubs such as the Rotary, Kiwanis or National Exchange, whose functions are of a business character, striving to bring the business world into closer contact and to further better business methods.

When it comes to matters of a civic character these should be handled by one organization.

Whether this be the present Chamber of Commerce or another organization is to be decided. It is the opinion of the writer that the Chamber of Commerce is a going concern, the best interests of the city would be served through using it as an agency. But some change in the methods and organization of the present Chamber of Commerce will have to be made before the people at large will submit to its control.

The idea seems to be prevalent throughout Glendale that the C. of C. is run for the benefit of a chosen few. This idea can only be eradicated by a change in policy.

We would suggest that the number of the board of directors be so changed that representation on the board may be from all sections of the city. That branch clubs be formed in each section of the city to be known as the district chambers of commerce. The president of each of these organizations to be a member of the board of directors of the main organization. The welfare organizations now formed could be turned into branches of the chamber if willing, which they probably would be, if the matter is properly put to them and they are given consideration.

This plan would probably call for a reduction of dues now asked by the Chamber of Commerce, but where a few men are working for the success of our city through the Chamber of Commerce agency, we would have a body of citizens.

The Chamber of Commerce should not be a money-making concern, but should be a representative body of Glendale and have the full confidence of our citizens.

If non-resident membership be permitted it should not carry a vote as is now the case.

We do not believe a non-resident should have a voice in our home affairs.

Two new members of the city council are to be elected in April. Let us start out with a clean slate. All pull together for a representative Chamber of Commerce which can act behind the representatives of City Council, all for the benefit of a Greater Glendale.

All the citizens of Glendale want is a fair representation from all, and when they get it they in turn will put their shoulders to the wheel and help push. If we do this, there will be no need for talk on annexation.

The Rotary, Kiwanis and National Exchange clubs of Glendale are furnishing committees to assist the Boy Scouts in putting over an extensive campaign for funds to take care of the budget for this year and next.

When you are approached by these men, who are giving their time gratis for this service, don't dig up all the time-consuming excuses to keep from helping this worthy cause. Hand in your subscription for as much as you can afford.

The boys of Glendale are its greatest civic asset. If proper agencies for their energies are not provided, some of them will become liabilities.

Why not assume your part of the responsibility by signing on the dotted line? If for any reason you are overlooked by the canvassers, he a sport and call up the Scout Headquarters and register your approval with a substantial subscription.

Nominating Petitions Ready for Candidates

Nominating petitions all ready to sign may be secured from City Clerk Van Wie by those wishing to enter the councilmanic race, which will be "pulled off" about May 10.

City Manager Reeves instructed the city attorney this morning to draft a petition of this character and to have a lot of them ready for the collection of ambitious Glendalians who are sure to make their appearance.

BURGLARS HOLD UP RESIDENT

C. E. Williams Interrupts Thugs at Work in His Home

THIEF DRAWS GUN

Three-Burglars Escape in Automobile While the Police Search

The home of G. E. Williams, 455 West Windsor, was broken into and robbed between 6 and 7 o'clock last night, according to a report turned into the police department by Mr. Williams at 7:10 o'clock.

When Mr. Williams drove into his garage shortly after 7 o'clock three men emerged from the back door of his home. Two of the fellows started on a run across the field, while the third remained behind and covered Mr. Williams with a revolver.

"If you come a step closer I'll kill you," said the thug. After his two partners had the machine running, which was parked a short distance away, the third fellow hurried across the field and sprang into the car, after which the machine was driven rapidly down Pacific avenue. Officers Booth, Kerns and Williams searched the neighborhood about the Williams home but no trace of the men could be found.

WELFARE COUNCIL REPORT SHOWS RESULTS

The Organization Thanks Those Who Assisted Its Work

The regular board meeting of the Glendale Welfare council was held Tuesday night at the city hall with Mrs. E. D. Yard, president, in charge. Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Young, secretary, and Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, director were present. Reports were read and approved and plans discussed for the work for the coming months.

The report of work accomplished follows: Home visits, 51; interviews at office, 39; employment secured for 13; families assisted, 24; new cases registered, 26; city order of groceries, 3. Received an abundant supply of clothing for men, women and children and also 6 comforts, 4 blankets, 4 sheets, 4 pillow cases, 19 towels, canned fruit and vegetables, apples and potatoes. The articles given from the council supply were: 593 articles of clothing, 35 pairs shoes, 9 comforts, 2 mattresses, sheets, pillow cases, 5 towels, baby buggy and comfort, 3 layettes, 24 Christmas boxes, canned fruit and vegetables. Cash given for relief, $148.14. Have received from grammar schools for Christmas baskets, $123.90, from high school, $6.57 in cash and an abundance of clothing very nicely made by the girls of the school league. Private donations, $93; yearly memberships from churches and other organizations doing welfare work, $40.

The council wishes to thank all who have assisted and to state that any organization desiring to join may do so by contributing $5 yearly membership or private donations of $1. Anyone knowing of assistance needed is asked to notify Mrs. E. D. Yard, Glendale 1142-R, or Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, Glendale 232-J, and help will be given immediately.

NEAR EAST MILK RELIEF MOVIES ARE SHOWN

Rev. La Fontaine, who is the Glendale chairman of Near East Relief, has arranged for a series of motion picture performances before children in the schools at which the admission charge will be cans of condensed milk which can be sent to the suffering children in the Far East. This afternoon at 3:15 o'clock a performance is being given in the auditorium of the Wilson Avenue school, Thursday at 7:30 in the Broadway school auditorium, Friday at 3:15 in the Central Avenue school and at 3:30 in the Cerritos Avenue school, and Monday at 3:15 in the Grand View school.

CITY ACTORS PLAN UNIQUE PRODUCTION

Lighting Scheme to Show Weird Effects on Desert Scenes

AN ARABIAN SETTING

Surprising Talent Discovered Thru Rehearsals of Little Company

Glendale Community Players will have their premier introduction tomorrow, Thursday night, February 15, when the members will be presented by William Howe of the Glendale Theatre in "The Hand of the Prophet," one of the most artistic and dramatic productions ever offered the Glendale public. A very unique lighting plan has been worked out by the house staff of the theatre. All of the necessary Arabian stage settings have been procured, which will further enhance the richness of the costuming. The Page Furniture company is furnishing some of the beautiful Oriental furniture.

The love story of the beautiful Halima and the romantic young desert sheik Sindibad, surrounded by the pomp and Oriental splendor of Arabian wedding festivities cannot fail to entrance the spectators. The earnest study and faithful rehearsals given by the actors have resulted in a smoothness and artistry of finish quite remarkable for amateur efforts.

The director, Nanno Woods, is fortunate to have been able to combine the three arts of singing, dancing and acting in this production. Almena Bullock, who has sung at Grauman's theatre, has a sweet voice which shows to advantage in the two Arabian songs. Dorothy Patterson, for many years a pupil of Belcher and Kathleen Woods, late of the Orpheum and Pantages, provide the three dancing numbers in a finished, professional style. Clarence Edwards, who in ordinary life fills the duties of assistant plumbing inspector for the city of Glendale, makes good use of the dramatic opportunities afforded him as the wealthy, middle-aged bridegroom, who resents the attention shown by Sindibad, the romantic lover, to his young bride Halima.

The play is in one act with three short scenes. Those who love the beautiful and romantic, those who are interested in good dramatic efforts and who appreciate a good thing when they see it, should not miss this opportunity given them by the Glendale Community Players. The play will be presented in addition to the regular motion picture program at the Glendale theatre. There will only be one show, beginning at 8 o'clock, and regular prices will prevail.

NEW ANNEXATION COMPLICATION DISCOVERED

County Surveyor Advises Board of Education of Lake Street

The county surveyor has advised the board of education of another district complication to be cleared up before the bond election can be called. This time it is in the territory known as the Lake street annexation, which begins on Aviation drive and runs up to Grand View. It is on the other side of the Southern Pacific tracks extending west towards Griffith Park. A portion of this territory was in the Glendale district for school purposes before annexation to Glendale and the county counsel has ruled that for fear the adoption of the city charter may have modified the status of such territory, petitions to be signed by the heads of families should be circulated asking for annexation for school purposes as a confirmatory measure. This will be done at once.

WOMEN'S MISSION OF CONGREGATIONAL MEETS

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church will meet Thursday, February 15, with Mrs. Blake Franklin, 817 W. Lexington Drive, instead of at the home of Mrs. W. L. Jencks.

Glendale Girls Appearing at the Glendale Theatre Tomorrow in the Community Players' Production, "The Hand of the Prophet"

LEGION CALLS ON ALL TO ATTEND BIG GAME

Crucial Contest of Basketball League Tomorrow Night

The Glendale American Legion Basketball Tossers, runners up in the Western Division of the American Legion Basketball League of Southern California, will play Huntington Park, next to the top in the Eastern Division, as a preliminary to the Southern California League Championship playoff between Pasadena and Santa Monica at the U. S. C. gym tomorrow night. To gain the same position as things turned out, Pasadena played only four games losing one of them to Glendale, while the Tidewater boys went through ten games undefeated. Glendale won her last seven league games in an unbroken string. The games tomorrow night will undoubtedly be fast and stiff and well worth seeing. The Glendale representation should be a strong one.

Transportation will be available at the Legion Hall on East Broadway any time after 6:30 p. m., and it is planned to start for the game at 7 o'clock at the latest, so be on the job early if you wish to go. The more there are the better the Legion will like it.

INDUSTRIAL SHOW TAKEN UP BY C. OF C.

W. L. Twining Submits Report on Proposed Exposition Here

A meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce was held Tuesday evening at which W. L. Twining, head of the advertising committee, submitted a report relative to the promotion of the proposed industrial exposition to be held the week beginning May 25.

W. E. Hewitt, chairman of the sewer committee, reported concerning a conference attended by himself, Secretary Rhoades and Peter Ferry, Monday morning at the Los Angeles chamber of commerce in response to the invitation of Mr. Pomeroy of Redondo.

Representatives from other suburbs of Los Angeles were present and were addressed by attorneys and engineers relative to a plan for a metropolitan sewer system to cover Los Angeles county, and for which a bill is to be introduced in the state legislature which will empower the county board of supervisors to build such a system. This constituted the chief business of the meeting, except for the election of ten new members.

BARR HOME ROBBED

The home of Mrs. W. H. Barr, 1237 Valley View road, was entered and robbed shortly before 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning. A number of articles of value were taken.

W. C. CUTLER SELLS NOVEL DIRECTORY

Automatic Selected Information Bureau to Be Made in Glendale

$85,000 IS THE PRICE

Local Syndicate Formed to Control the Operations

W. C. Cutler of 1227 North Louise street has just sold one of his most important patented articles, the Cutler Automatic Selected Directory for $85,000 and a royalty, to a syndicate composed of L. G. Scovern and George Whittaker, of Glendale, Bryce A. Smith of Lodi and Stockton, Calif., and Gordon P. Felts of Hollywood, which organization will continue the manufacture of the directory. One hundred and fifty of these directories are being made at this time in Glendale.

The sale constitutes the right to manufacture the directory in all of the larger countries in the world, twenty-three different patents having been taken out. The name of the new firm is the Cutler Selected Directory Service company.

This directory is only one of the 162 things invented by Mr. Cutler. These inventions date back to 1881, when he brought out his first mail chute for the door. He has created several novel compression pumps and has been issued six patents on the Isoico ice making machine. In 1888 he invented the first airplane. It was constructed very much along the lines used today, the only trouble being that it would not fly.

He is the inventor of the Cutler peeposcope, which has for years been used in the amusement arcades about the country, and he also brought out the first ice cream vending machine, and also a pie and bread-wrapping machine, which will wrap 1000 pies or loaves of bread in one hour.

Several styles of pasteboard box making machines have been devised by Mr. Cutler, who also invented the first machine for taking moisture out of natural gas, the product obtained being known as Rigolene, methane, etc. He has created a mechanically operated manicuring machine, which does the work quicker and better than it can be done by hand. There is the vacuum feed fountain pen and the novelty pencil sharpener, which also can be used as a cigar cutter, knife, check protector and eraser.

Mr. Cutler had the honor of mailing the first parcel post package under the parcel post law. He sent it to Woodrow Wilson, when he was governor of New Jersey. He made the first wireless writing device. Mr. Cutler has the largest variety of geraniums in the world, there being 385 kinds in his collection. He planted the largest acreage in dates, this being 140 acres in Coachella valley.

Mr. Cutler has lived in California for 44 years, and in Glendale for seven years. His career as an inventor started when he moved to the Golden State.

MUSIC CLUB TO CALL UPON ALL AUXILIARIES

To Unite in Charter Program on Next Friday Night

Junior and juvenile auxiliaries of the Glendale Music club are to participate with the senior club in the charter night program to be presented Friday night at Glendale High. Members of the auxiliaries are asked to bring their membership tickets, or if they are delinquent in dues to hand in the money that night and receive their tickets which will entitle them to admission. The concert will be restricted to members of the three organizations because of the limited capacity of the hall, and a very artistic program is being arranged of a character calculated to be of interest to young as well as older members. The silver trophy in the membership drive will be presented that night to the member who has secured the largest list of new members in excess of five. At the present time Mrs. Spencer Robinson and Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan are ahead in the race but there is still time for others to distance them.

WIFE BEATER GETS JAIL SENTENCE

Judge Lowe Announces Such Men Will Find No Mercy in Court

E. B. Breland of 451 West Elk avenue was sentenced by Judge Lowe yesterday to serve thirty days in the county jail for battery. He pleaded guilty at 10 o'clock yesterday morning to the charge of beating his wife. He is now serving his sentence in the county jail, according to Judge Lowe. Mrs. Breland appeared before Judge Lowe shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning in a very nervous condition. She claimed that her husband had been whipping her, and she swore out a complaint against him.

This is Breland's second offense of this character, according to Judge Lowe. The first was for whipping his step-daughter. "Please say so me," said Judge Lowe this morning, "that this court has no sympathy for the man who will, through superior strength, harm a woman. I will send him 'over the road' every time."

NEW HIGH WIRING BIDS ADVERTISED

Trustees Vote to Ask for Bids for the Entire Plant

WORK IS UNDER WAY

Board Gratified Over Reports of Safety Survey of Buildings

High school trustees at their regular meeting Tuesday evening voted to begin today advertising for bids on the electric wiring of the new high school plant for light, electric and program clocks, and broadcasting apparatus, also for the installation of telephones and clocks, the bids to be opened March 2, at 2 p. m.

Members expressed great satisfaction over the rapidly with which work is going forward at the new plant where cement pouring has begun. The board was also gratified to receive excellent reports from the heads of all departments relative to the monthly survey of grounds and buildings with regard to safety, the reports showing conscientious attention to the correction of anything which might cause accidents.

The board also voted to employ for three periods instead of for two, Mr. Wilson, band instructor, and Mrs. Florence Parker, chorus leader, because of the increased work in that line, and make the proper readjustment of salaries.

The board also voted to employ on full time, Henry M. Burlage, as a teacher in the science department.

The request of Rev. LaFontaine who appeared before the board and asked permission to present to the students the work for Near East relief of which he is the Glendale chairman, was granted.

COUNTY AUDITOR AND COMMITTEE DEADLOCKED

Superintendent Richardson D. White reports that no agreement in the form of a statement acceptable to the teachers' investigating committee and the county auditor has yet been reached relative to the cost of public schools in this county which the committee has investigated and concerning which sensational and erroneous figures were sent out from the auditor's office. At a meeting held Tuesday a statement was submitted by the county auditor which committee members were unwilling to sign. A statement was then drafted by the committee and another meeting will be held Friday. If the county auditor will sign it, the statement will be submitted to the county board of supervisors for publication as a correction of the misleading figures first broadcasted from the auditor's office. If not, the committee will decide upon what further action to take.

LAPHAM WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION

Makes Definite Statement of His Intention to Run

STEPHENSON IS OUT

Rumors of Other Candidates Come From South End of City

Councilmanic fireworks have started. Councilman Lapham stated definitely last night that he will be a candidate for re-election in May. Councilman Stephenson stated emphatically that he will not be up for re-election.

"Unless I become mentally incapacitated between now and election time I will not run," said Mr. Stephenson. "I have had enough. However, there are two big questions coming up that I would like to help to solve—the transportation and the sewer questions—but I will have to forego this pleasure."

From the south end of town comes the rumor that there will be a regular band wagon full of councilmanic candidates. The names already mentioned are Lloyd H. Wilson, William Griffin, Dr. W. C. Mabry and Sidney S. Gilhuly.

Mr. Gilhuly stated last night that he is not desirous particularly of becoming a member of the city council, but that he does want to see a representative elected from the south side.

W. C. T. U. Meeting on February 16

The regular meeting of the Glendale W. C. T. U. for Friday, February 16, will be held jointly with the church missionary societies of Glendale in a day of prayer. Services begin at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the Baptist church. The W. C. T. U. has the hour from 3 o'clock until 4 in the afternoon. Members are requested to attend throughout the day. Bring your own lunch.

HI TEACHERS' CLUB TO DINE

The High School Teachers' club will have a dinner for members and friends Friday evening at the Glen Inn. Following the dinner a program will be given which is being arranged by Paul Webb, president of the organization, and members of the program committee.

BUSINESS WOMEN HAVE DINNER OF REAL CHICKEN

Members With February Birthdays Have Special Table

Between fifty and sixty members of the Business and Professional Women's Club were present for the chicken supper served Tuesday night at the club house, 126 South Maryland, by members who had joined the organization in December and January. Guests of honor were members who have birthdays in February and these were seated at a special table centered with a handsome birthday cake studded with quite a forest of candles.

Following the dinner the members had a birthday march to inspiring music played by Mrs. Robert Young. The march was the suggestion of Mrs. Jennie Phillips, who later in the evening was made chairman of ways and means. The march yielded $30 which was increased to $1, and turned over to the chairman of the friendship committee to be applied to the fund for sending flowers to members who are ill.

When the march ended the president, Dr. Laura Brown, called the meeting to order and after the minutes had been read and approved, reports of committee chairmen were received.

Dr. Jessie Russell presented a proposition to build and furnish a club house to contain about 25 rooms to be rented to business women, and other rooms for club purposes, including dining room, lounge, etc. As the matter is in the hands of a committee which has not yet submitted its recommendations, no action was taken.

Members elected to membership at the meeting of the council last Tuesday were introduced and the club was advised that they would be the hostesses at the dinner to be served one month hence. They and other members were urged to bring in all the new members possible and new patrons of the noon luncheon served daily at the club house.

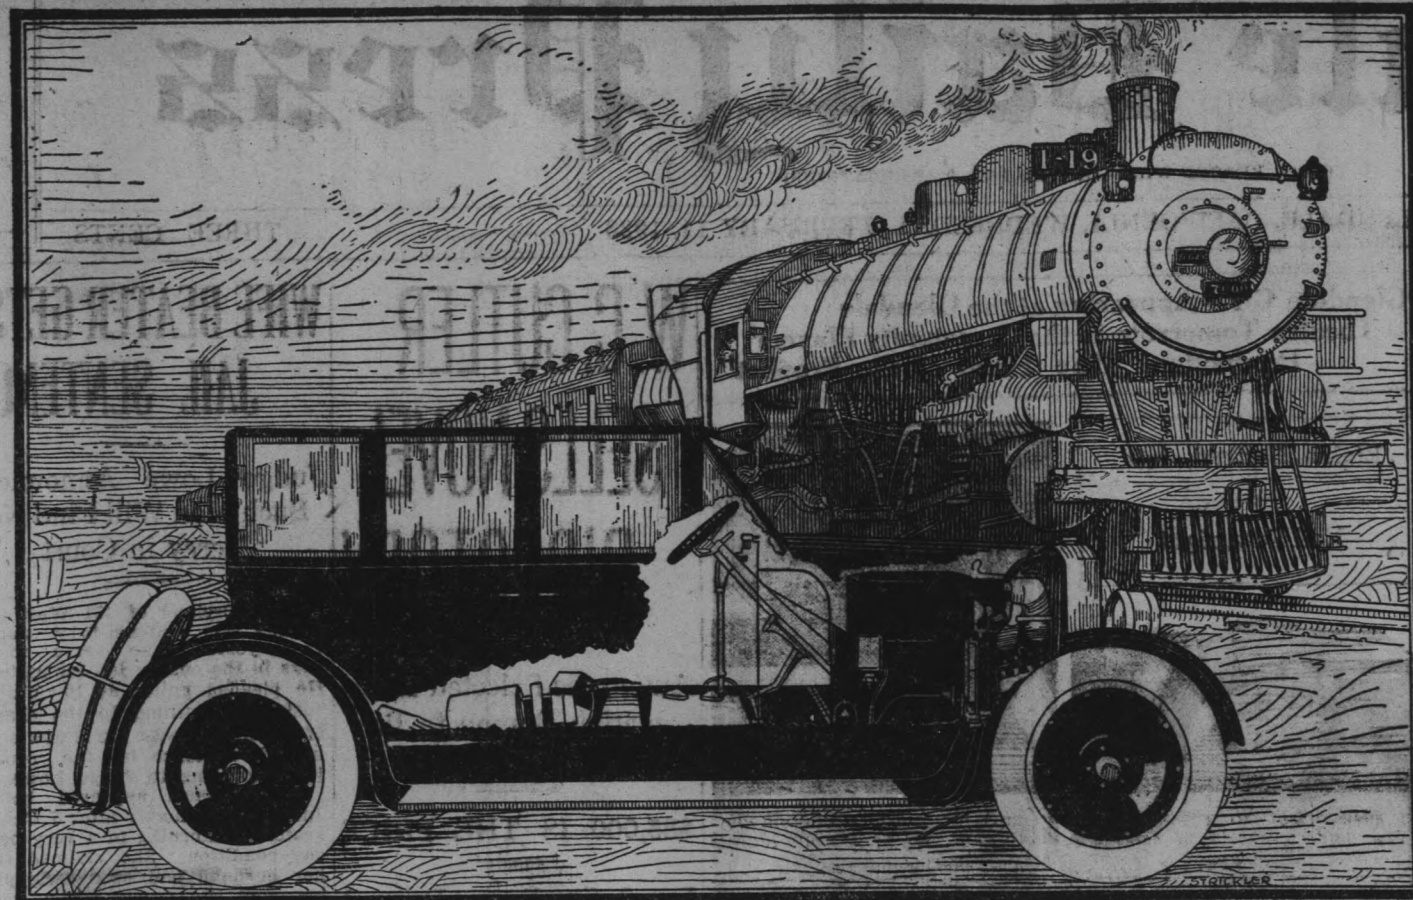

The card party to be given by the club the fourth Tuesday in February was announced.

Mrs. Kirkman reported that the first installment of club buttons in the club colors, red and cream, had been promised to her for Thursday of the present week, and a large number of members present ordered the buttons.

A communication from Mr. Gulick relative to his proposed bus line was read and the club voted in favor of bus service to relieve traffic congestion but with the understanding that it was not sufficiently familiar with the Gulick proposition to endorse that particular enterprise.

A communication from the Exchange Club relative to the purchase by the city of the Glendale Sanitarium site for a civic center was presented but no action taken. Officers and committee chairmen then reported briefly, and after Mrs. Phillips had accepted the chairmanship of the ways and means committee, the club voted unanimously to support her in any money-making projects she might undertake for the organization.

THE HIGHWAY DESIGNED LOCOMOTIVE WITH A MOTOR CAR DOCILITY, BODY AND BEAUTY OF CREATION

The 1923 Doble steam motor has a cross-compound, double-acting engine of precisely the same design as the giant locomotives used exclusively by the New York Central lines to haul their fastest express trains, according to Abner Doble, inventor of the car, which will be shown for the first time today in Glendale.

Several very beautiful vocal numbers were contributed by Mrs. Virginia Freeman, a club member, for which her old friend, Mrs. Robert Young, played the accompaniment, the numbers being "The Years at the Spring," and "Good-bye."

The club gave a unanimous vote of thanks to the trio of young girls, daughters of members, who assisted in the serving of the dinner, and also a unanimous vote of thanks to Mrs. John Robert White, who had graciously consented to conduct a parliamentary drill in motions and amendments to motions, and to Mrs. A. A. Barton, who led the club in some community service songs and assisted in the parliamentary drill, which closed the program of a very successful evening.

ADVANCEMENT MEET DEFERRED

No meeting of the Glendale Advancement Association was held this week, but it is expected the noon luncheon will be resumed next week. Meanwhile petitions are being very successfully circulated among the owners of frontage on Glendale avenue, asking for the improvement of the thoroughfare.

Subscriptions to the stock of the re-organized company which is promoting the hotel on the Ambrosini site are also being secured at a satisfactory rate, says Herman Nelson, secretary of the association.

Mr. Nelson is also satisfied with the status of the bonus for the Glendale-Montrose line which is to electrify the Glendale avenue line owned by the Union Pacific and effect connection with the yellow car line.

SPECIAL MEETING OF WEST SIDE FOLKS CALLED

On account of the small attendance at the meeting of the West Glendale Improvement Association held last night at the Columbus Avenue school it was decided to call a special meeting of the association for next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the school. The topics to be taken up for discussion at the special meeting will be the school bond election and also revision of the Glendale city charter. President R. Streif was in charge of the meeting.

HI FACULTY WINS COMMANDERY GLENDALIANS ARE BASKETBALL HONORS MAKES NEW KNIGHTS SELECTING LOTS IN WING TRACT

Women Teachers Show Pupils They Are Fast Workers

A new basis of fellowship and respect was established by the basketball game between a team composed of women members of the faculty of Glendale High and the first girls' team of the junior class, played Tuesday afternoon. It ended with a score of 8 to 4 in favor of the faculty.

Flushed with victory the successful six accepted challenges from teams made up of basketball players in the night school, and these games proved diverting affairs. Both teams threw dignity to the winds and romped through the contests. In the first game the faculty won, 12 to 4. The second game was a tie, and when continued the night school players were the first to score two additional points.

On the faculty team which played in the afternoon of the first game in the evening were: Miss Ballard, jumping center. Miss Corry, running center. Miss Knight and Miss Shattuck, forwards. Mrs. Koltz and Miss Snyder, guards.

Replacing members in the second evening game Miss Haney, Miss Schindel, Miss Elom and Miss Seelye.

Mr. Hayhurst refereed the afternoon game, and Miss Blanchard, gymnasium instructor of evening classes refereed the evening contests.

Breaking Up Champion Baseball Teams

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Champion ball clubs, in these days of "get rid of 'em when they crack," have a normal duration of only a few years.

More recently the Giants and the Yankees seem to have broken the spell that prevented clubs from repeating as pennant winners. Requirements of modern baseball necessitate an ever changing policy in personnel, as is evidenced by looking over the rosters of the major league clubs.

Not one of the great stars of the 1914 Athletics remain on Connie Mack's payroll. Many of them are still in the game, but they are scattered all over the circuit.

Hank Gowdy is the lone survivor of the champion Brave team of 1914.

The champion Boston Red Sox of 1915 have been completely disbanded and of the Philadelphia Nationals, which opposed them in the series that fall, none remain.

Olson, Wheat, Myers and Johnston are the only members of the Brooklyn champions of 1916 who are still drawing pay from Squire Ebbets.

Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk, and Red Faber still survive, but all the other stars of the champion White Sox of 1917 have departed. Every one of the pennant winning Giants of the same year have also gone their ways.

Killifer, Hollocher, Deal and O'Farrell still wear the Cub uniforms, but the Cubs of 1918 have scattered.

After winning the pennant and the championship in 1919, Pat Moran broke up the Cincinnati Reds. With Daubert, Duncan, Roush, Wingo and Luque as a foundation, he has built a new team that is another contender.

The Cleveland champions of 1921 are also under the process of reorganization. Coveleskie, Uhle, Morton, Wamby, Sewell, Gardner and Jamieson are the only survivors that Tris Speaker has on his roll.

The New York Yankees have what might be considered a veteran team and the owners will have to keep building it up with new material as they go along.

The Giants, on the other hand, have virtually a young team and McGraw ought to be able to get along for three or four years with the material he now has at his disposal.

Routine work was carried on at the meeting of the Glendale Commandery Monday night when a class of five candidates was given the order of Malta and the order of the Red Cross.

The next big affair in the Commandery of which Roy V. Hogue is commander, will take place the 24th, which will be "ladies' night" when knights and their ladies will be entertained with a dinner and dramatic entertainment.

Monday, the 26th, will be "Past Commanders' Night," when work in the Order of the Temple will be put on. Past Commander Mattison B. Jones will have the pleasure of officiating when the order is bestowed upon his law partner, Dwight W. Stephenson, member of the city council.

Commander Hogue reports he has received a very grateful letter from Mrs. Ravenscroft expressing her appreciation of the kindness shown her by Knights Templar and members of other orders during the illness and death of Mr. Ravenscroft.

Dr. Hogue also reports that Riley Lyons has been appointed custodian of the Masonic temple, and will have an office there where he can be found at any time during the day. He will have general charge of the building and collect the rents.

Water, gas and lights are going in with a rush, together with other modern improvements. Building restrictions with a minimum of $3500 have been set, no temporary houses permitted, but one house to a lot and no duplexes. In other words, prescriptions have been taken to preserve this as one of Glendale's finest residential districts, with all close-in advantages, such as schools, car lines, main boulevards, churches, and a great thriving city within a matter of a few blocks.

The tract office, now open, is located at 1200 East Colorado street, at the corner of Sycamore Canyon road. As there are but 114 lots in the tract, Marvin E. Smith, selling agent for Benj. Sheldon and A. G. Smith, subdividers, advises "prospective buyers not to delay getting out and making their selections. The prices are $1400 and up, with one-fourth down and three years to pay the balance."

"The time is coming, and soon," states Mr. Smith, "when those who have failed to take advantage of opportunities like this will be unable to buy close-in Glendale property at any price. This is just about the last great opportunity in the city, and I want to go on record as prophesying it won't last long."

BURBANK IS IMPROVING ALAMEDA

The report that the city of Glendale is doing street work on South Alameda street, which is supposed to be in the county between Glendale and Burbank, is a "flivver."

A reporter of the Glendale Press investigated this matter this morning and found that the work is being done by the city of Burbank and that Burbank trucks and men are being used in this work, and, further, that the work is being done under the supervision of the city engineer of Burbank.

Alameda street, south of the Southern Pacific tracks is known to be in Burbank, but there is some question as to whether the part of Alameda, between the S. P. tracks and the San Fernando road is located in the county, the city of Burbank or in Glendale. However, in order that the residents in Burbank to the south of the tracks may have a fair road on which to reach the main highway, the city of Burbank is improving the stretch of road between the tracks and San Fernando road at its own expense. Decomposed granite is being used in this improvement.

PASSING OF GOOD NEIGHBOR IS HONORED

J. J. Muhleman Is Laid to Rest Amid Gentle Memories of Kindly Man

In the passing of Jacob J. Muhleman, who was laid to rest in Forest Lawn Cemetery on Monday, February 12, 1923, his family and friends lost one who will long be remembered in loving affection. He possessed many sterling qualities, not the least of which was his faithfulness in friendships formed all through a long life. Ties formed in the years when he lived in his native state of Ohio were never severed, and in his old age, separated by many miles and an ordinary life span of years, he often spoke of and corresponded with the associates of his youth and middle age. He was ever the interesting companion of his sons and daughters, and his warm heart kept its warmest corner for his little grandchildren. He cared for the things which last and are worthwhile, and valued a friend more than wealth.

Mr. Muhleman was a good neighbor and an excellent citizen of every community in which he lived. He was especially interested in all civic and national affairs. Mr. Muhleman was a lifelong Methodist and a consistent Christian, unconsciously applying the Golden Rule each day as he lived it. Until his sixty-fifth year he lived on a farm, enjoying all the freedom and fullness of country life. To this and to his temperate habits are attributed his longevity, for he was Lincolnian in his simplicity. After leaving his farm he and his wife lived near Cincinnati, Ohio, most of their children. The failing health of his beloved wife induced the family to come to California where she lived but a short time.

Later, Mr. Muhleman built a home on Maple street, near Brand boulevard, in Glendale, where he lived until three years ago when he moved with two of his daughters to Cabazon in Riverside County, California, where the dry climate, mild winters proved very beneficial and no doubt lengthened his days till he was called at the great age of 89 years, 1 month and 13 days, of which more than seventeen years were spent in California. Six of his children were present at his bedside. He leaves eight children: Randall G. Muhleman of Cabazon, Calif.; Frank L. Muhleman of Pacoima, Calif.; Charles H. Muhleman and Alfred J. Muhleman of Glendale; Mrs. Carrie A. von Wahlde and Miss Minnie Muhleman of Cabazon, Calif.; Mrs. E. T. Anshutz of Redlands; Mrs. L. W. Chobe of Glendale, and thirteen grandchildren, all living in California. Mr. Muhleman leaves two brothers, both octogenarians, living in the east.

THE SHERROD SHOP PRINCIPAL MOYSE OUTGROWS ITS REPORTS ON QUARTERS ASSEMBLIES

Sherrod's Specialty Shop at 207 East Broadway has outgrown its present quarters and will shortly move into the Jensen building on North Brand. In order to reduce its stock and to make room for new goods for their new store, Sherrod's have put on a removal sale and are making drastic reductions in many of their lines of ladies' goods. This is in keeping with the progressive policy of C. C. Sherrod, who is a wide-awake merchant and believes in handling the best lines. The large advertisement elsewhere gives a few of the many good prices offered for the removal sale, which is now on and will continue until about March 1, when Sherrod's will move to their new home. Their store in the Jensen building will be one of the truly good ladies' shops in Glendale and almost an entirely new stock of high grade and standard merchandise has been ordered for March delivery.

SPANISH ASSEMBLY

A Spanish assembly is being advertised at the high school to be held Friday from 11:30 to 12:30 and from 12:30 to 1:10. A fine program is being prepared and an admission fee of 10c will be charged.

Principal George U. Moyse reports that the monthly patriotic assembly at Glendale High will be held on February 22, Washington's birthday. The birthday of Lincoln was observed by all the classes but there was no general assembly program. Morgan Smith will have general charge of the program on the 22d, which will be furnished by the various departments of the school. It will be featured by colonial costume and promises to be different from Washington assemblies that have been held in the past.

The Weekly Washington Letter of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, First Securities Company

By D. H. SMITH

Manager Brand Boulevard Branch Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

D.H. Smith

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 13. — German paper mark circulation had passed the trillion mark and was well on its way up to a trillion and a half at the end of last year. Between January 1 and January 12 the printing presses turned out 50,000,000 marks more in currency, so that today the total is in excess of 1,336,500,000 marks. Back of this is slightly less than 1,000,000,000 gold marks in the Reichsbank.

However, a depreciated currency has its advantages. The Shipping Board recently reported that the Hamburg-American Line and the North German Lloyd had just redeemed all of the outstanding bonded indebtedness—in German marks. On a gold basis the bonded debts of the two companies amounted to about $25,000,000, but by redeeming them in paper marks the slate was wiped clean for about $50,000. One German boat will make this much profit in a round trip.

VETERANS COME TO STATE

The influx of World War veterans from all over the United States to Southern California has attracted the attention of the Veterans' Bureau and in the last month Colonel Forbes has asked for and received exhaustive reports on the situation to determine the desirability of erecting one of the largest hospitals in the service to handle the Southern California cases. A score of sites are under consideration.

BANK DEPOSITS GROW

California Savings Bank deposits and deposits in other banks reporting to the San Francisco office of the Federal Reserve Board increased almost $100,000,000 during 1922, according to the Federal Reserve Board. The increase, to be exact, was $98,000,000 and the total savings deposits in the state on January 1, 1923, amounted to $831,000,000. More than one-third of the year's increase, or $35,000,000 was registered during the month of December, last. These figures include funds on deposit that are not subject to demand payment. Certificates of deposit are excluded.

U. S. THIRD IN SHIPBUILDING

England is first in shipbuilding, Germany is second and the United States is third, according to official statistics. Despite the fact that the Shipping Board has 1100 idle steel steamships riding at anchor, there are being built today in American ship yards 218 vessels of a total tonnage of 251,000. These figures come from the Department of Commerce.

Community Players are making their bow in this performance and should be given every encouragement. They get nothing out of it except what is allowed them for actual expenses by Mr. Hovner who is glad to loan his theatre to show the public what these young people can do. It is his performance and tickets will be sold at the usual prices.

MISS FREEMAN TO SERVE COLONIAL TEA

A unique Washington's birthday program is being arranged by Mrs. Virginia Freeman who will entertain with a colonial tea members of the Music Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club at her home, 216 West Dryden, February 23. She will be assisted by Mrs. John Cotton and Mrs. Roberta Young.

COLUMBUS AVENUE P.T.A. TO HAVE FATHERS' NIGHT

The members of the Columbus Avenue Parent-Teacher association will hold "Fathers' Night" on Thursday, February 15, at 7:30 o'clock in the kindergarten room of the school. An interesting program has been arranged and refreshments of home-made cake and punch will be served. The fathers of children attending the Columbus Avenue school are requested to be present. Mrs. C. H. Thompson is president of the association.

Triangle Club of Woodmen Organized

Organization of a Triangle Club, to which only members of the Modern Woodmen lodge are eligible, was formulated last night at a meeting held at the home of H. Molz, 363 West Lexington Drive. At that time a constitution and by-laws were drawn up. It is planned to close the chapter with fifteen members. Officers will perhaps be chosen at the next meeting of the club.

Part of the functions of the Triangle Club will be to increase the social activities of the Woodmen lodge and also to take care of the widows and orphans of members of the club, in addition to charity work where needed. At the close of the business meeting refreshments were served by Mr. Molz.

CERRITOS ROOM
MOTHERS MEET
Room mothers of the Cerritos Avenue school met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roy Bidgeman, 1008 Virginia place, chairman of the finance committee of the Cerritos Avenue Parent-Teacher association. Plans were made for the fancy work and sandwich booths, which will be in charge of members of this organization at the P.T.A. federation bazaar on February 23 at the high school.

Jack Tryer and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Winer of Lebanon, N. J., are visiting with Mrs. Anna J. Moore this week. Mrs. Moore is expecting six more relatives from New Jersey whom she has not seen since childhood. They intend to settle in Glendale.

The Pre-Lenten dance given last night by the members of the Glendale Council of Knights of Columbus proved one of the most successful affairs of the year, with 150 couples present. The dance music furnished by Jerry Parker's seven-piece orchestra proved irresistible. The surprise feature of the evening was when the Knights discovered a diamond ring on the finger of Miss Caroline Brehme and also the fact that it had been placed there by Herman Psenner. Grand Knight Harry Girard escorted the young couple to the platform where their engagement was announced and they were introduced to the crowd, much to the astonishment of Mr. Psenner, who is blushing yet. The dance was in charge of the new members of the lodge and lecturer Hugh Bryant, and the old members are taking off their hats to them on the success of the affair.

GLENDALE FOLKS ATTEND NUPTIALS IN LOS ANGELES

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Nash, Sr., of 711 North Central avenue, were among the Glendale guests who attended the pretty but quiet home wedding on Saturday afternoon of Frederick Baker, Jr., and Miss Anna Mildred Dietzel, which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Baker, Sr., 1321 South Gramercy Place, Los Angeles, formerly residents of Glendale.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dyringer, pastor of the English Lutheran church of Los Angeles. The bride's mother and sister, Mrs. Dietzel and Miss Lillian Dietzel, came from Clearfield, Pa., to be present at the wedding. The bride was charming in white crepe gown and orange blossoms. The maid of honor, Miss Susan Ritter, were gown in pink taffeta and carried a bride's roses. During the ceremony Daniel Mangabat, Hawaiian violinist, played softly, Miss Margaret Ward sang "I Love You Truly," "At Dawning" and "Because," accompanied by Miss Alice King. Henry Dunlop of Glendale and Mr. Reed attended the bride and groom. The large parlors were decorated with spring flowers and the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Jr., left shortly after the ceremony on a wedding trip.

OXY GLEE CLUB HAS BIG RECEIPTS

The concert by the Oxy Glee Club given Tuesday at the High School netted the Boys' League, under which it was given, $45. This money goes to the sick benefit fund for boys injured in athletics. The league now has about $90 in the fund which is drawn upon whenever any boy in the league has need of a physician's services on account of accident in athletics. Unless the injured pupil declines the assistance, Gordon Bartow is president of the league.

ST. VALENTINE DAY HONORED AT THE RANDALL HOME

Miss Anna Randall was hostess to a Valentine party at her home on February 13. There were seven young people present—Lillian Kilgannon, Janet Phillips, Frances Burworth, Teddy and Sonny Burworth, Gordon Graham and David Howton. Refreshments were served. Valentines and candy hearts were presented as souvenirs.

A profiteer bought a magnificent steam yacht and went for a cruise in the Mediterranean. Off the Spanish coast the yacht hit a rock and sank, and the profiteer was nearly drowned.

"Yes," he said, recounting his experience to a friend, "I had a narrow escape. I thought I was done for."

"Tradition has it," said the profiteer's companion, "that when a man in struggling hopelessly in the water he remembers every evil deed he ever committed. Did that happen to you?"

"Well, not altogether," said the profiteer. "You see, I was only struggling about eleven hours."

An illiterate man was in the witness box, and the pompous magistrate sought to improve the occasion while emphasizing his own superiority.

JIM, A GREAT LOVER

Please, readers and editors of this paper, I would say a word for Jim.

His eyes are blue, and they twinkle like dancing silver stars. But there are times when they do not dance—when they are strangely inactive. On such occasions Jim turns a steadfast gaze to the sky and searches the cloud spaces for dream pictures of the past, vaguely framed by Time and dimmed by the march of events. Then Jim's eyes light up with a blazing fire which hallowed memories of the war kindled in his heart and mind and soul.

Jim was a soldier boy.

Jim came back from the war and did some serious thinking for a spell. He joined the church, stayed away from parties, and acquired the habits of a bachelor. Girls, he said, didn't attract him.

Then Jim got married. He was seventy-four at the time, and a few years later his wife died. Then Jim married again.

He has nine children now and is on his sturdy way to his ninety-fifth birthday.

Two years ago his second wife died. It was she who gave him all his children.

Jim got religion and joined the church fifty years after he came back from Gettysburg. He fought on the side of the Confederacy, and was a member of the Soldiers' Home in Annapolis, Miss. He is somewhat of a philosopher.

"I never went to parties, or dances, or parties, where there were girls, and grew up to be a typical bachelor," Jim says. "Girls somehow failed to attract me after I was grown."

Jim's full name is James Henry Turner. He smokes a pipe, but occasionally runs short of tobacco. Nothing so upsets him as to find himself without matches when he has tobacco and is all set to light his pipe.

Old age, it seems to me, is the sweetest part of a man's life. He is at peace with himself and the world and has run the gamut of an interminably long chain of experience leading finally to contentment, repose and resignation.

But why did Jim wait until he was seventy-four to be married? Was he happy before that? Or, staying away from parties, dances and "parties" where there were girls, was he lacking in the peculiar art of conversation which attracts a girl to a man?

The evidence seems to indicate that Jim did not woo but was wooed. But I prefer to believe—having a firm sweet picture of Jim in my mind—that it was he who wooed and finally won.

I base this opinion on the theory that a man is never too old to learn, especially one who was a soldier boy.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE

At last the Paradise Spot of all Glendale is ready to sell. For many months subdividers have besieged the owners of the Wing Ranch to purchase it for subdivision. We were the fortunate ones and now offer you the opportunity to buy lots in the most beautiful spot in all Glendale for a home. If, in your whole life, you ever intend to purchase a lot, don't overlook this opportunity.

Facts About the New Wing Subdivision

1—It faces and lies just south of Colorado street, the leading thoroughfare of both Glendale and Pasadena.

2—It is within 3 to 4 blocks of the new $600,000.00 High School and within 3 blocks of one of Glendale's largest Grammar Schools.

3—The Sycamore Canyon Boulevard, which is to be the very best and most fashionable as well as the largest and widest driveway this side of Wilshire, runs along the full length of the tract.

4—You don't have to wait for values to grow to you, they are there when you buy and you get the immediate benefit of them.

Do You Prefer--

A home on a barren lot or a home in an orange orchard, surrounded with the beautiful things that can be grown on the most fertile soil.

A home on a pioneer tract or a home close to all the modern conveniences that close in property will bring, such as schools, car lines, churches, boulevards and a thriving city.

A home where no public improvements are likely or a home where millions will soon add greatly to property values.

There is coming a time when the home you are planning to build will be compared with others. That is sure to happen when you offer it for sale or for rent. When that time comes it will be money in your pocket to have your home adorned with trees and grass and flowers—and be close to all the conveniences that always go with close in property.

Remember, This Is a Pre-Opening Announcement

But we can sell you now, so if you want first choice, don't delay—come at once to office, No. 1200 East Colorado, and we will show you the finest and best lot buy in any tract in all this land of flowers.

Truths in Epigram

No trait of character is rarer, none more admirable, than thoughtful independence of the opinions of others combined with a sensitive regard to the feelings of others.—Froude.

There is no difficulty to him who wills.—Kossuth.

Men resemble the gods in nothing so much as in doing good to their fellow creatures.—Cicero.

LADY JANE'S SAD CASE

A picture is published of the execution of Lady Jane Grey. It is not a pretty picture. And the publication of it now 329 years following the event, is not for a purpose to be commended. Part of the caption of the illustration is: "This Kind of Capital Punishment Abolished." Why not ALL?

The execution of Lady Jane was a horrible affair in every respect, including motive and detail. The gruesome chapter in history marked by the crime, has not even a remote bearing upon conditions as they prevail in 1923 A. D.

Men are killed in the industrial field. Police press forward at the risk of their lives. Firemen rush, under orders, to where almost certain death awaits. A general, fighting for a righteous cause, issues a command that means the sacrifice of thousands of lives, and is deemed to have done well. Public health is neglected so that worthy and useful citizens die of insanitary environment. Little commotion seems to be stirred by the slaughter of innocents.

It is when a brutalized or perverted human being has blooded his hands in deliberate crime; when he has proved that he is worthless, dangerous, a rotten branch on the social tree, that at once his life and comfort appear as suddenly hedged about with a sort of sacredness. Unfit to live among men, why permit him to live among men, a burden to them, a constant menace? The victim of the assassin soon is forgotten. Not so the assassin. Very likely he becomes a type of the heroic. Morbid folk make a pet of him.

The fact is notorious that in California, a large and populous state, the man charged with murder fears capital punishment and has no fear of any other penalty. He knows the meaninglessness of a sentence of imprisonment. He is quite aware that even a life sentence implies only a comparatively brief detention in comfortable surroundings. Upon the understanding that he shall receive a prison sentence he is willing to plead guilty. In the absence of such compromise, he hires a trick lawyer, who endeavors to assemble a stupid or partly corrupt jury, and fights to cheat justice altogether.

The indication of this clearly is that capital punishment, if enforced, would be deterrent. That it fails in many instances to be deterrent is because of the well-grounded belief that it will not be enforced. Murderers after condemnation to prison have committed similar crime within the walls, or after they have been released by a sympathetic parole board. It is not of record that one, having been duly hanged in accordance with the spirit and letter of the statute, ever has committed another crime.

This has nothing to do with the melancholy experience of Lady Jane Grey. People are not capriciously penalized now for political offenses. In truth, Lady Jane is dragged into the situation quite irrelevantly, with no possible hope but to confuse the issue. The whole question is this: Has society a right to protect itself against the murderer?

Opponents of capital punishment answer in the negative.

THE EVERY DAY HERO

While the mines at Dawson, after the recent explosion were in such condition that they could be entered only at the risk of life, men, comrades of the victims, were eager to go in. Some of them barely survived the experience. All understood fully the perils they were so willing to face. At such a time there is a sentiment stronger than caution, stronger than the natural promptings of fear. It is the expression of a fraternal spirit that binds men of common and dangerous calling into a veritable brotherhood. This brotherhood has no ritual. Its code never has been written. But when a crisis comes the members pay their dues.

There never has been a disaster that did not develop heroism. The greater the disaster, the more grave the impending threat, the more manifest the desire to rescue the living or bring forth the bodies of the dead. It is deeply to be deplored that any calling should involve constant contact with possible tragedy, as does the calling of the miner. The miner is brave, so proclaimed by the fact that he is a miner. His own life he seems to hold lightly, but not so the lives of his friends.

It is strange that such explosions as that at Dawson should not have been rendered impossible. Even if the owners of mines fail to take to heart the sacrifice of the humble toilers underground, there is the chance that the management may be blamed, and even made to pay. Business is brought to a standstill, and the incidental expense of clearing away the wreck would seem to be worth taking into consideration.

Pity is akin to love, and if a young man has an obese bank balance it isn't difficult to find a girl to pity him.

A reckless chauffeur is a sort of automaniac.

FRIENDSHIP

Emerson in his essay on "Friendship" said: "Let the soul be assured that somewhere in the universe it should rejoin its friend, and it would be content and cheerful alone for a thousand years."

From the same eminent source came the saying that "the only way to have a friend is to be one." The measure of value he placed on friendship may be discerned in the avowment that "a friend may well be reckoned the masterpiece of Nature."

The late H. Z. Osborne, long esteemed in this section for his public service and his personal worth, knew that he had been called to pass along to the unfathomed space into which is loosed the freed spirit of mortals. He was not dismayed. He was not even apprehensive, but as he realized the fewness of the days that were to dawn for him, he trusted more explicitly in the goodness of God. And he wrote then a message that suggested a belief along the lines of Emerson, for he said: "Life is made happy only through friendships. My own life has been a treasury rich in friendships. . . . They have been staunch, true friends, and their confidence and support have always been such a comfort to me. . . . I have never counted as very important among life's ambitions the accumulation of worldly riches. Money is only good in its wise expenditure and for others. But I have always felt that services for my fellows, so far as my ability lay, brought me the greatest reward."

At the bier of this modest gentleman gathered many who had been glad of his friendship, and who felt that the message he wrote from out the shadows had been for them.

There's no reason why a woman shouldn't take boarders if she wants to, but she shouldn't try to board a moving train.

Love is the real thing until the newness begins to wear off.

THE BRITISH DEBT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The British cabinet has accepted the unofficial proposition of our debt refunding commission.

The gist of this is that the British agreed to pay us a total of four and a half billion dollars. She will extinguish period of sixty-two years. During the first ten years she pays 3 per cent., thereafter, 3 1/2 per cent. interest.

The British cabinet has approved of these terms which binds England to it. We are not bound until congress adds its approval.

We should endeavor to look at this proposition first, fairly, and second, practically.

First, it is fair enough. It is fair to the British, for although they pay more interest than they hoped to, they probably pay a lower rate than they would have had to do if they had waited until the next congress.

It is fair enough to us, first of all, because it shows us that Great Britain expects to pay, and she is about the only country that does.

In the next place, Great Britain is paying us about $150,000,000 a year, including interest and sinking fund, and that is something. Although our government pays its bond holders and note holders more than the 3 per cent. it is to receive from Great Britain, still the British debt payment extends over a long period of years; and there is every reason to assume that in time the rate of interest here will sink, especially if Europe shall become stabilized. Before the war we easily borrowed money at 3 per cent. and less, and in all probability we shall make more out of fifty-two years of 3 1/2 per cent. British interest than we shall lose in the ten years of 3 per cent. interest.

We should think a little of the other fellow. $150,000,000 a year is quite a burden to pay your creditor, especially if none of your debtors are paying you, and the nations that owe money to Great Britain are showing no signs of coming across. It is a splendid and many things for the British nation to do to shoulder its debt and declare its willingness to pay, no matter whether she is paid what is owed her or not.

The great point of all, however, is that good understanding will be established between the two English-speaking nations. Nobody knows what is going to happen to Europe and Asia. The two great nations that were the sole guarantee of peace and prosperity of the world are Great Britain and the United States. Whatever makes for good-will and thorough understanding between these two nations makes for the welfare of mankind.

If we have to take our choice between being Anglomaniacs and Anglophobiacs, we should choose the former. For it is undoubtedly better for ourselves and for the rest of the world for us to be too much in love with Great Britain than to have too much hate toward Great Britain. It is, however, necessary to be any sort of maniacs not, however, necessary to be any sort of maniacs to understand and appreciate the necessity of English-speaking civilized people standing close together in good fellowship during the present perilous condition of the world.

THE LISTENING POST

By JAMES W. FOLEY

There was a place where burdens were heaped. Burdens of various sizes and weights and kinds.

JAMES W. FOLEY

Burdens bearers.

Most of the men selected their own burdens. Although in some cases the burdens were laid upon them without their own selection or will.

But however it was, all of the men went away from the place of burdens bearing some burden or other.

And the men with the cumbersome burdens complained of their bulkiness and the difficulty of making progress with them.

They were carried with difficulty. They got in the way of boughs along the path and they seemed to fetter the arms and legs of the bearers.

And some of the burdens were so dense and heavy they sank deeply into the muscles of the back.

Bruised and sore and hurt. And as the bearer walked the burden sank deeper.

Songs of the Poets

"A Rose Will Fade"—By Dora Sigerson Shorter

You were always a dreamer, Rose, red Rose,
As you swung on your perfumed spray,
Swinging, and all the world was true,
Swaying, what did it trouble you?
A rose will fade in a day.

Why did you smile to his face, red Rose,
As he whistled across your way?

And all the world went mad for you,
All the world it knelt to woo.
A rose will bloom in a day.

I gather your petals, Rose, dear Rose,
The petals he threw away.
And all the world decided you;
Ah! the world, who well it knew
A rose will fade in a day!

CAGE FOR GIRLS, BUT UNGUILDED

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The suggestion comes from Judge Ford of the appellate department of New York's supreme court.

His honor has been watching with consternation the developments in divorce cases. The conclusion he has drawn is that girls between 15 or 16 and 25 are safest in cages. Bluntly he has delivered himself of the non-official opinion that it is the marriages of immature girls and undeveloped boys that chiefly make the grist of the divorce mills.

Investigators generally will support the conclusions of Judge Ford.

But will they support drastic measures to reduce the amount of grist? Let us see. Suppose—mind, I only say "suppose"—that our legislators had a sudden fit of illumination, and utilized it in their work. If such a miracle should come to pass they might enact a law which would make a marriage made under 25 divorce proof for five years. Simply say to silly, love sick swains that, having made one mistake in the name of love, they would be denied the privilege of making a second until they were old enough to temper love with judgment.

There would be a good deal less flying into matrimony on an impulse if the parties to marriage knew that they would have to stick it out for five years. The sticking would be good for their souls and the chances are that it might result in establishing on a permanent footing many a marriage that now goes on the rocks.

To be sure everybody is making suggestions about our appalling divorce conditions but many of the suggestions are mandling sentimental and others are fanatical. If in the face of all opposition girls will fly into marriage, the courts might undertake in their behalf the discipline that the parents have been unable to exercise.

Thinking it over is a mighty effective deterrent; but who is going to think a matter over when it is so easy to do it and then undo it? As things now stand anybody can marry one hour and apply for divorce the next, declaring the union a failure. Nothing is a failure until it has been tried.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

SHIFTY BORAH

(Charlotte News and Courier)

It becomes harder than ever to figure out Mr. Borah. Some will see in his sudden shift, his transformation from a rigid non-interventionist to an extreme interventionist—in Germanism and in pro-Germanism and many's behalf—evidence of pro-Germanism and a bid for the German-American vote. We do not think that this is just. The evidence so far does not warrant such a verdict. But it is a pity that Mr. Borah, a member of the senate foreign relations committee and a power in American politics, should have sounded this blast against France at this time when any day may completely change the face of affairs.

Continental Europe is lining up in two hostile camps and the shadow of a great war hangs over the continent. It cannot possibly be averted by American intervention in behalf of Germany, but it might be averted by American mediation a little later on when the magnitude of the impending conflict becomes manifest. Nobody knows whether so timid and "static" an administration as this one would seize the opportunity to mediate if it comes. But when men like Mr. Borah talk as he has been talking, they threaten to eliminate the possibility of mediation by rendering this country unavailable as a mediator.

A STUFFED CLUB

(Philadelphia Public Ledger)

Marquis Curzon is using the League of Nations as a club with which to threaten the Turks. As a threat, the league's power to invoke Articles X and XI against the Turks because they are refusing to arbitrate the Mosul quarrel is not convincing.

The league today is as strong as England and France care to make it and little more. France and England are facing the Turk at Lausanne and are fairly well united on what they want, but they are not getting it. It is not likely that the Turk will be more fearful

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

There is said to be harmony among senate democrats, but politically speaking, that is one of their few possessions.

Mr. Hughes insists that as secretary of state he is not taking orders from the senate, showing by this that he is a real secretary.

The Turks were bluffing. A suspicion that this was the case was mentioned several days ago.

Nobody actively concerned in the invasion of Ruhr seems to be having a very good time.

Tutenkhamen might have known that buried with so much treasure somebody would stake him as a gold claim.

England and France have not drifted so far apart that they could not present a solid front to Turkey.

The prisoner Alguin appears to place more than a justifiable value upon his neck.

All Wisconsin is said to be talking of Bob La Follette. Once the whole country did this. And the things it said!

Perhaps girls pluck their eyebrows lest they look too pretty and become vain.

A man sued for divorce by a movie star says that if he tells his story it will startle the world. Can't be done. The world is accustomed to that type of narrative.

Of them if they come in the guise of and name of the league than as their proper selves. As a bludgeon in this instance, the league threat looks like a stuffed club.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The anniversary of Lincoln's birth results in the finest tributes to the great man that affectionate admiration for his matchless character can evoke from American writers. It is possible that little new is said as the occasions recur, but no word set down in truth concerning Lincoln is wasted.

Truly Lincoln was not only the greatest American, but one of the greatest figures in the history of human progress. That he rose to the height where still he stands, impressive, luminous, masterly, might seem to present all the aspects of a miracle. Yet his was no more a miracle than is genius wherever implanted. Lincoln's genius was of a rare and peculiar sort, so precious that no wonder it seems as a gift from God for the uplifting of the people. It was a genius for looking into the soul of humanity, for instant recognition of the right, and for doing the right so firmly, so gently, so bravely, as to make Lincoln seem the type of a higher soul. He was divinely inspired. He had a capacity for goodness far above that commonly bestowed. That which Lincoln represented was the eternal spirit of righteousness. He was the instrument bearing a message to the world.

Many years has the martyr rested in the tomb, but the message is as living and vivid as when it was being delivered through his majestic presence among his fellows, by noble deeds, or by words stately in their beauty, and laden with the poignancy of love out of a heart throbbing with desire to serve God and mankind.

Another of these sixteen-year-old brides, who in order to get that way, had sworn she was eighteen, has drifted into court. Naturally she wants a divorce, and this is up to the judge.

Speaking as a rank outsider one might suggest that the petition be denied. By keeping her married until she has grown up, she possibly may be saved from making a second fool matrimonial play.

The other day the funeral of a Chinese was held in Los Angeles. It took place in a Presbyterian church, and the preacher presiding was Chinese. Among the mourners, for this man has been friend to many, were his countrymen in native costume, or in suits entirely Americanized. There were also many white men there for the purpose of paying their respects to one who had deserved this expression from them.

One cannot invariably tell much about the soul of a man by the color of his skin.

A lecturer professes to believe salvation of the social structure possible only through a dictatorship. There must be one man strong enough to direct and control all the rest. He is to be obeyed without question. A superman, indeed, would such mortal be.

The lecturer may be suspected of having been led into error. Salvation through some solitary individual hardly is to be expected. Such an individual could neither acquire nor maintain authority. Russia has a dictator. Germany had one.

The hope of civilization is in the individual, not as a personality, a towering figure issuing commands, but the collective humanity, the aggregate of individuals. If they permit themselves to embody the principles of justice, and by these principles to govern their conduct, the case is not hopeless.

If the problems of the present wait for solution upon the coming of any one man supreme in his power, the effort to make the world more fit to live in might as well be abandoned without further waste of energy.

The Southern Pacific will continue to operate the Central Pacific. This has been decided upon by the final authority. Business interests of the coast seem to have been in favor of such outcome. As for the ordinary citizen, not engaged in shipping, he knew nothing of the merits of the case.

Last week a night watchman at Eagle Rock shot and killed a burglar.

Each actor in the little tragedy played the role well. To shoot burglars is what a watchman is for, and to be shot, represents the only useful mission of the burglar.

It is said that a mechanical burro has been invented. This thing is credited with ability to climb the mountain trail, and never grow weary while it carries many times the amount that should be placed on a burro.

But there is a difference that never can be overcome. The curious mechanism is unable to bray.

The sums spent by candidates for various offices have been published. Some of the losers were more lavish than the winners, and besides this, have to count their expenditures as dead loss.

To the victors belong the honors, and while it is impossible to estimate these with exactitude, doubts they are worth something.

Many cities are issuing bonds in large amounts. Investments in such bonds not only bring fair returns but returns from the sums invested are not subject to income tax.

What the ordinary citizen would like to know is why they are not.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

My own domestic grand jury has just brought in an indictment against me. And it looks as though when I am presented at the bar of the court of common sense I will be found guilty as charged. The only comfort is that my adored wife will be found guilty too. The charge is:

"To wit, that he is a darn fool. So is she."

The written evidence of the truth of the charge will be offered to the court. The one thing we can hope to do is to ask for mercy on the promise of amendment. We can show the court that we deserve some consideration, for we have already started to reform. The inquiry into our mental states started some time ago, when Mrs. Pilgrim asked how much money our neighbor made each year. I happen to know. He and I pull down almost the same sum to a penny.

"They live better than we do," said Mrs. Pilgrim, meditatively. "Did she have any money?"

She didn't. Neither of them had any money except what he earned, but they have spent more carefully than we have. They spend more money on some of the big things of life than we do, now, because they have saved money and can afford it. We have thrown away cash needlessly and they have not.

"Let us find out just what we spend our money for," said Mrs. P.

"Down to the nickel."

For two months past we have been putting down in two little red notebooks every expenditure. No such charge as "sundries" is permitted. I have related how many cigars I have bought and my street car and taxi fares and newspapers and lunches and, above all, my tips. I have been horrified by the amount of money I have given away in tips. So has she.

"We can cut our expenditures one-third and not miss a single thing," was our conclusion.

Somehow, when you see just how much money you have spent—see it in black and white and then discover how little money there is on the right side at the end of the month—you get a different slant on this business of living. We've been as loose-fingered as a pair of whalers. We are continually dropping nickels and quarters and dimes and dollars out of our pockets.

A little red account book is a most illuminating thing.

'DISRAELI' PROVES ARTISTIC FEATURE AT CLUB MEETING

Section Announcements Are Made by Mrs. Dunn for Absent Curator

A most pleasing and artistic reading of the play "Disraeli," by Louis Park, was the program feature at the regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club held at Masonic temple yesterday afternoon, presented by Arthur Kachel, who was most enthusiastically received by the large number of members who crowded the auditorium. The program was preceded by a business session in charge of Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president, and Mrs. Cora Dunn, secretary.

In the absence of Mrs. W. E. Evans, general curator, Mrs. Dunn made the following section announcements:

Shakespeare section, dance, Saturday night, February 17, at Pearl Keller studio, proceeds to be for fund to purchase flat silver for clubhouse. Tickets $1 per couple, or 50 cents for single tickets. Regular meeting of section on Monday, February 19, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Hudson, 64 North Central avenue. Business meeting at 1:30 and study of fifth act of "Romeo and Juliet" at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Walter Jones, curator.

Maids and Young Matrons' section, Mrs. Julian Hayward, curator, will meet Tuesday, February 20, at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. H. D. Charlton, 326 Salem street.

Literary section, Mrs. J. E. Sargent, curator, will meet February 20, at the home of Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, 307 North Kenwood street. An afternoon of Longfellow will be given by Mrs. Daniels of Pasadena.

Bible section, Mrs. J. E. Lyons, curator, meets on Monday, February 26, at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Lillian Dow, 650 North Kenwood street. An important business session will precede the lesson.

Drama section, Mrs. R. E. Chase, curator, meets Friday, February 16, with Mrs. C. O. Kling, 342 Myrtle street, with Mrs. Halstead as assistant hostess.

Legislative section, meets February 20, with curator, Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, 426 West Harvard street. Lesson at 10 a. m.

Music section, Mrs. Warren Roberts, curator, meets Friday, February 23, at Casa Verdugo Methodist church, Mrs. Virginia Freeman as hostess. Subject will be "Church Music" with Mrs. John Cotton as the leader.

The names of seventeen applicants for membership were read by the secretary, Mrs. A. A. Barton, representing Mrs. E. W. Hayward, parliamentarian, read an amendment which is to be presented for voting at the next club meeting, changing Article 7, Section 8 of the By-laws, which proposes a slight increase in the fee for temporary membership in the club.

Mrs. Campbell announced that a Mr. Charlie had been secured as caretaker for the new club home and would take up his duties as such some time this week. Of special interest were the various pleasant surprises announced by Mrs. Campbell, which included the statement that Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and her committee are going ahead to furnish the lounge room up to $1500. The club had previously decided not to increase the debt already assumed for the building and furnishing of the necessary things for the new home and this announcement was very enthusiastically received. Mrs. Campbell stated that it is hoped that the first meeting in the new clubhouse will be on guests' day or "husbands' night," March 13, when each member will be limited to bring an escort and no other guests. It is planned to have open-house some afternoon later in order that all might have an opportunity to see the new building. Another surprise was the gift of a silver fruit punch ladle from Mrs.

THIS RADIO RECEIVING SET TAKES DOWN NOTES WITH FOUNTAIN PEN IN OPERATOR'S ABSENCE

The ingenious receiving set shown above makes a written record of code signals that come in during the operator's absence by means of an ordinary fountain pen. The machine was built for the use of field parties of the federal bureau of standards at Washington. The photograph shows Dr. J. C. Karther (at left) and Dr. E. A. Eckhardt, joint inventors, with the machine. Both are on the staff of the bureau of standards.

Margaret S. Peppelman. The gift of two 5-gallon coffee urns has been promised by the courtesy, civic and philanthropic committees. Since the last club meeting the music section has voted to buy and pay for a grand piano up to $1200. The sprinkler tops for the system being installed on the club grounds are being donated by Mr. Fife, and a handsome chair has been ordered for the reception hall or lounge room by Mrs. Claude Pulliam.

A substantial check for $500 was presented by Mrs. Montgomery, chairman of the ways and means committee, to the treasurer. She reported having cleared $77 on the barn dance, $350 on the rummage sale and auction, and $30 at the food sale at the last club meeting. A balance of $60 is left in the ways and means treasury as a working fund for further activities. Mrs. Montgomery announced the second meeting of non-section members to be held at her home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, 415 South Central avenue. She also urged the members to take part in the cake baking contest at the P. T. A. federation bazaar, February 23, for which a $100 range is offered as first prize. The birthday march netted $5.10.

Mr. La Fontaine, representing the Near-East Relief, made a brief plea for financial assistance in the work of helping the children of Armenia, after which Mr. Kachel was introduced. Mr. Kachel is a master reader and his presentation of the play "Disraeli" which is the story of how Great Britain's diplomat schemed for the purchase of the Suez canal, was splendid.

THE DIRECT ACTION RANGE TO BE PRIZE

An unusual opportunity to secure without cost or obligation of any kind a Direct Action, no bottom gas range, warranted not to burn fruit cake or other delicacies, will be afforded the women attending the cooking demonstration classes at Coker & Taylor's plumbing establishment, 209 South Brand boulevard. Every two months one of these stoves is to be given away free during the coming year.

A large number of Glendale women have been availing themselves of the privilege of attending these demonstration classes which are in charge of Mrs. Border. Hereafter each one attending will register her name and address on a numbered ticket every time she attends the class. At the end of each two months a drawing will be made and the stove awarded. It is not necessary that she attend every class, although the more classes she attends the larger number of chances she will have to win the prize, which will be given absolutely free.

'PEG' WINS AT THE GLENDALE THEATRE

Last Showing Today of Famous Success of the Spoken Drama

A local event of considerable importance in the photoplay world took place at the Glendale theatre, with the presentation in this city of Laurette Taylor in a screen version of her most famous role, the title part of "Peg O' My Heart." The brilliant star of the stage was seen by many for the first time as "Peg," and to these especially the occasion was a memorable one. In its celluloid form the celebrated play by J. Hartley Manners is destined to win new greatness; and the charming star an even greater renown.

Miss Taylor's "Peg" is a decided contribution to screen artistry. It is an effective reply to those who continually clamor "what's wrong with the movies?" The next time picture fans hear that complaint, send the knocker to see Laurette Taylor in "Peg O' My Heart." If he doesn't come away singing the praises of all concerned in the making of this delightful story, and of the photoplay as art, he is either blind or a moron.

Once again "Peg" lives on the screen. Once against hundreds of thousands will thrill to the woes of little Peg, and once again will they rejoice with her in her happiness. For Peg is back again, and she is destined to stay a long while.

King Vidor, who directed the picture, has faithfully transferred the play to the screen. Mary O'Hara prepared the excellent scenario, and George Barnes is responsible for the fine photography.

BUS LINE PLAN IS EXPLAINED

That the Glendale Motor Bus company and the Southern Pacific Motor Bus company has filed with the state railroad commission and the board of utilities in Los Angeles applications for permits to run busses over 32 different routes in and around Los Angeles, was the statement made last night by C. D. Gulick, manager of these two companies, at a dinner given to the city council and interested real estate men.

His companies have options on the Tujunga-Los Angeles stage line and the Pasadena-Santa Monica line.

The bus proposition of Mr. Gulick was well received by those present, who included City Manager Reeves, Mayor Robinson, Councilmen Lapham, Stephenson, Davis, Mr. Gilhuly, W. P. MacMullin, E. L. Shaw, Arthur Campbell, R. W. Wheeler of the Home Realty company of Los Angeles, and J. W. Clune of the Ivanhoe Hills company.

GLENDALE INDIANS PREPARING TO COME BACK

Having had a week of idleness the Glendale Indians are preparing to come back strong next Sunday, with the addition of two more first-class ball players and the fans who witness the game next Sunday are promised a treat.

The Indians tackle the fast Santa Rita nine Sunday at Park and San Fernando road, at 2:30 p. m., and a fast corking good game is expected.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS are the persons chosen by the states of the United States to elect the president and vice-president. ## COURT MOTOR CO. PREPARED FOR ALL REPAIRS

Thousands of Dollars Worth of Special Machinery Installed

The finishing touches have just been put to the elaborate service department of the Court Motor company, 235 South Brand boulevard, these making this one of the finest repair departments in Southern California. Several thousand dollars worth of specially built machinery has been installed, the idea in the installation being the saving of time and the turning out of repair work in the most efficient manner possible.

While this shop is equipped in an especial manner for the maintenance and repair of Cadillac cars, for which this firm is agent in this valley, all makes of machines will be repaired and rebuilt by this concern.

With its service department completed this firm has one of the most complete and beautiful automobile establishments in Southern California. It extends an invitation to the people of Glendale to its completed home to see the modern features that have been provided.

How Could You, Iowa?

Twenty women, representing welfare organizations of Des Moines, Iowa, recently demanded that the City Council pass an ordinance prohibiting the loading of automobiles to a point "that the girls have to sit on the men's laps."

I think I'll go to Iowa. The state of shelled-corn fame; For when you pay your "git," you get

To hold a pretty dame. Perhaps it wouldn't be as soft, 's many folk's would crave; The chance you'd draw a wren With one foot in the grave. Now, Iowa, I never thought You'd from the "straight path" stray. You're nothing like you used to be—Shame on you, I-O-W-A.

Silence gives consent, but there are times when it is unwise to consent to silence.

14 FOR SALE

HOUSES

4-ROOM BUNGALOW

MONROSE $2500

Just one block above Honolulu avenue, looking directly over Sparr Heights, with BEAUTIFUL MOUNTAIN VIEW. Just a little over 1 block to streetcar. Living and dining room 12x18; kitchen 9x11, with sink, cooler, and large cabinet; bedroom 11x13; bath, 5x8, closet 2x3, all plastered and wired for electric lights.

On lot 50x150 with small corner cut off in rear to give rear entrance to lot from side street.

$1000 REWARD

In twelve months, anyone can earn this reward by buying above place direct from builder with small payment down and balance like rent. Within less than one year this property will easily sell for $3500 to $4000.

When you buy it direct from builder at first cost it is not like buying property that has changed hands three or four times and each party making $500 each.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY

easy. Parties who bought at corner of Broadway and Brand a few years ago did not invest in L. A. Why? Just because they had foresight enough to see the future advantages of the L. A. climate over L. A. This was not luck. It was good judgment and foresight in buying ahead of the rush and high priced property. They knew good and well the mass of people would soon learn they could avoid the fog by securing higher altitude.

Sure enough it has happened as they foresaw, and they will know the fancy profits they have made.

is to Glendale what Glendale a few years ago was to L. A. These are facts you yourself know. Are you going to be one of those "IF I HAD"?

Remember, talking about it won't make YOU any money. It is action that counts.

I have another 4-room house roughed in ready for plaster on lot adjoining above house; will furnish to suit your own ideas and sell with small down payment.

Will also furnish business lot and put up store building on reasonable terms.

TIME FOR NEW WORLD ORDER SAYS SPEAKER

J. V. MacKay Speaks at International Bible
Students' Meeting

"A study of the conditions existing in Europe at the present time will prove that the social order that for centuries has existed is challenged in the course of disintegration," said J. V. MacKay, an Australian missionary, speaking at the meeting of the International Bible students here Sunday evening.

"The time has come for a new world order, and the work of destruction now in evidence on the other side of the Atlantic shows that we are in the transition period between the old and new order. A kingdom of justice is about to be established by the great God, the creator of man. Man will be delivered from the bondage of corruption and will progress to a condition of everlasting life and perfection."

"We must look forward, after the present cleanup, to a period of development along moral lines, a development of all that is good and that tends to the elevation of man—music, science, art and especially of the knowledge of the creator, who has made the new world order possible through the sacrifice of Christ."

REV. LAFONTAINE AT THE NAZARENE CHURCH

Rev. Charles LaFontaine, a Near East representative, was the speaker at the Nazarene church at the afternoon service on Sunday, giving an account of the work that is being done by the Near East association.

The evening sermon was preached by Rev. L. E. Swamy of the Nazarene church at the Nazarene mission in Los Angeles on February 15.

The Nazarene church which was recently organized in Glendale has thirty-one members at the present time.

The prayer meeting Tuesday evening was held at the church with Rev. Scheideman in charge.

Friday evening the prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rambo on West Park avenue. Everybody is cordially invited to attend the services of this church. "Where you are a stranger but once."

THE SORROW AND THE SONG

Smile again, try again, hope again, Sorrow.
Surely will joy come again on Tomorrow.

Clouds may hang heavy now, sad hearts be breaking.
But on the morrow will new dreams be waking.

Grief with her raven plumes over us winging,
Yet on the morrow once more comes the singing

And shall the cheery lark from field and cover
Sing with his merry note: "Winter is over!"

Up then from dull despair, rise with me, Sorrow,
Up to the fragrant air sweet on the morrow.

And shall come Gladness like Dawn on the flower
Drying thy tears of dew her gracious hour.

Love with her touch so light softens thy grieving,
Make thee know joy again past all believing.

And Hope shall come to thee with rarer dreaming,
Hope with her jeweled crown wondrously gleaming.

Know that Tomorrow hath ways of beguiling
Thy sobs to laughter and thy tears to smiling.

Smile again, try again, hope again, Sorrow,
Surely will joy come to thee on Tomorrow.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND CHARLES DARWIN

Born February 12, 1809

If you could enter the auditorium of one of the great high schools of St. Louis, Mo., you would observe at once twin statues of these great men of history whose birthdays are identical, occupying equal places of honor on sections of the front wall near the opposite corners of the platform and facing the audience.

Yet there could hardly have been greater difference and contrast than in the conditions and circumstances of their early life history and experiences: the one, those of pioneer poverty, loneliness and deprivation pathetic to contemplate; the other, those of mature civilization, society, and provided opportunities for culture and a professional career which he declined to fit himself for, to the disappointment of his father, who could see nothing but failure and worthlessness as a result of his intense interest in, and devotion to, the study of natural phenomena, emphatically in their relations to organic life.

Notwithstanding these widely contrasted beginnings there is a striking analogy running through the life history and the psychological achievements of these two men that we do well to discern and consider, for the innate character of each was elemental, and the record of each is monumental, and as enduring and cumulative as the multiplying generations of humanity. Their natal day will ever be unique in the annals of time and history as man advances from the bogs, fogs and miasms of brutality, ignorance, superstition and selfish error and deception, oft clothed in the habiliments of institutional righteousness.

We need not add a word to the record of our own and the world's Abraham Lincoln. Humanity vies in his praise. But it was not always so. Within the memory of the writer vials of venom and hate were often poured out at the mention of his name, even in some sections of the northern states. "Copperheads" were common. Churches were rent asunder and preachers were not lacking who proclaimed human slavery a divine ordinance upon authority of scripture.

The year before Abraham Lincoln was elected president, Charles Darwin's epoch-making book appeared; the concrete result of years of strenuous application. It awakened the scholarship of the world upon the subject of life and its organic evolution in species, etc. It led to concerted and systematic research and investigation of the whole field of natural history accessible to inquiry—geology, paleontology, archeology, philology, ontology, embryology, and ethnology. The general result cumulatively proved that, whatever differences of opinion there may be, or might be of minor details, all forms of life have evolved in terms of its generations originally from the primitive cell, into all of its organic species, not excluding man.

There is in the recognition of evolution as the universal principle of Nature and of life unity, a beauty, a harmony of nature and a grandeur of human potentialities and achievements, never disclosed in the speculative systems of thought and doctrine of the past. Yet how few there are that have any intelligent idea or knowledge of Charles Darwin and of what he has wrought and influenced others to develop in the liberation of mentality from the shackles of primitive, racial superstitions, and the enthronement of the moral intelligence as supreme governor and director of life in the development of character, personal and social.

He has suffered much in reputation as did Lincoln for a time, from vested institutions and institutional vestments, and the enfranchisement of the souls of men cannot be consummated by the stern arbitrament of warfare, as can that of their bodies, nor can it be prevented by defamation. The South forced the conflict that freed the slaves, and forever condemned the very principle of ownership. The world war has condemned, and forever removed from intelligent minds, the very idea of a "Divine right" inhering in any potentate, or pretender to anything of the kind. We have lately had the spectacle of a one-time statesman (?) making a noise to frighten sci-
